"Royal in Purpose, Royal in Deed."

Class Song, June 29, 1880.

WORDS BY MARGARET A. EMERSON. MUSIC SELECTED.

We are standing to-day at the portal,
Which opens the future to view ;
Eager hopes, ardent longings possess us,
To prove ourselves royally true.
For the world in its need calls for helpers;
Its cry breaks forth boldly and strong,
With footstep courageous, unfaltering,
We go forth to battle with wrong.

Gilded thrones, which ambition oft covets,
Stern fortune may firmly deny ;
Kingly scepters as potentates wield them,
The future may never supply :
But in lives of most earnest endeavor,
In purposes royally grand,
We claim rank with the highest of rulers,
And govern a limitless land.

Yet if life were mere purpose and longing,
Disloyal, imperfect at last,
We should stand at Jehovah's tribunal,
Lamenting an incomplete past :
But purpose to action e'er tending
Shall mark all the pathway of life ;
And ever in helpful deeds ending
True vict'ry shall guerdon our strife.
